Description of School

Of approximately 21,000 students, more than 16,000 are undergraduates, making Ball State primarily an undergraduate institution. The 731-acre residential campus is one hour northeast of Indianapolis. Ball State offers about 190 major areas of study in seven colleges: Applied Sciences and Technology; Architecture and Planning; Miller College of Business; Communication, Information, and Media; Fine Arts; Sciences and Humanities; and Teachers College. A college-prep curriculum and SAT or ACT scores are needed. The writing portion of the ACT is required for English credit but it is not an admission requirement. Several scholarships are available.
